LIFE OF LORD DALHOUSIE.

The following interesting review of The Life of the Marquis of Dalhousie, K.T., by Sir William Lee-Warner, appeared in the Standard: -

The position attained by Lord Dalhousie

among the Statesmen of the last century.

the importance and volume of the doonments, private and official, now for the first time disclosed, and the wise discretion which has placed them in such competent hands, give a value to Sir William Lee-Warner's work which the biographies of eminent men do not always possess. THE HONGKONG LAND INVEST- Dalhousie, on his return from India and during the brief remainder of his life-he 775 died in December, 1860, aged forty-eightwas assailed on many sides with the same virulence and obloquy which had been the first fruits of the reward won by Warren Hastings for laying well the foundation of the British Empire in India. During the Mutiny. 836 while men like Lawrence and Montgomery. who had served under him, bitterly regretted that he was no longer at the helm, he was denounced in many quarters at home as the main cause of the catsstrophe. Even some of those who have defended his policy in general were unable or unwilling to exonerate him completely. He himself, broken down and aged prematurely by the strain of his Indian labours, could only maintain a dignified silonce. He would have vindicated his 848 policy from his seat in the House of Lords, where alone he wished to notice the charges brought against him, but his failing strongth made this impossible. Even more readily would be have assisted the Government with his counsel in the hour of danger, but this satisfaction was also withheld. What he would not do was 886 to sanction or take part in any indirect or unofficial raply to his accusers. Unable to meet them face to face, he preferred to await the verdict of posterity. This, indeed, had been the rule of his life. Ceaseless in his activity and untiring in the work of reform and administration when in office, it was not his habit to be always seeking applause for his actions, although no Governor-General of India ever worked harder, or has left behind him a more lasting record of achievement. While he was still Governor-General, Sir Charles Wood wrote to him :- I admire more the robur et as triplex with which you carry on your affairs in spite of the Press. But what a trial of patience and temper it must be! To this the answer was, 'I will make no reply, and enter into no controversy with the Press, and I wish no oneto do it for me." While, however, he was too proud to porarios, Dalhousie never disputed the right of history to be supplied with full and trustworthy material on which to hase its judgment. Much of his time, during the last years of his life, was spont in 838 collecting and arranging official documents and private correspondence that would throw light on his career, and dispel the cloud of detraction which at one time overhung it. He had also kept a diary from the time when he got into scrapes at THE HONGKONG LAND INVEST. Harrow, and formed good resolutions at " Oxford—some of which his biographer observes, he carried cut—till the day of his departure from India. In accordance with his will, this copious mass of material was for many years, stored up smong the archives of his house, and only now has it been unsealed. Admirably handled and digested by DOULLTTLE & POLLOCK, Sir William Lee-Warner, it has been made 1 & 3, Wellington Street. 697 the basis for the first standard and authoritative biography of the great Statesman who, with Warren Hastings and the Marquess of Wellceley, stands out in the annals of British India as one of the founders and consolidators of the Indian Empire. He first created the British Administration of Bengal. Wellesley conceived and carried out the system by which the native sovereignties were brought under the control of the paramount Power. Dalhousie, as Sir W. Lee-Warner says, harmonised the work of his two great predecessors. He consoliresponding speed, $50, or by instalments dated scattered territorries under the Company's direct rule. He annexed the 'ADVANCED' LESSONS to comple. Punjab and Lower Burma, and by the masterly way in which he reorganised the conquered Provinces he secured their loyalty and prosperity under the Crown. He gave India its first railways and telegraphs, and may be said to have initiated the vast scheme of public works which alone would be the justification of our rule in the East. He was charged with having, by peglect of military precautions, and too forvid energy in conferring on India the material advantages of civilisation, sown the seeds of that discontent which, under his predecessor, yielded the barvest of mutiny and rebellion. It is one of the main objects of the book to show how little truth there was in this accusation. When he died, it was said in one of the obituary notices that the history of his Administration must be read in the light of the bloody commentary of that rebellion which suc-Sir William Lee-Warner has little diffioulty in demonstrating how those writers who had previously attempted to describe Dalhousie's career have been misled, either by their ignorance of material facts or by the prejudices of the time. One of them failed to find some of his most important Minutes, and seems to have been cold by Sir . In Keepe that the papers were not at the India Office, where they have reposed till thus day. The late Sir Edwin Arnold, in spite if his opportunities for observation, sometimes went, curiessis.

Amongst other things, he declared that Dalhousie entertained a singular regard for public opinion, which, as already indica-ted, is about the last infirmity of noble, or other, minds that can be imputed to him. When a friend, however, suggested that he was inclined to be over-sensitive to interference, he did take it upon himself in a private letter to meet the insinuation. It was true enough, he wrote, that he would not allow the Court of Directors to insult him, as they used to insult his predeces-sars. He did not mean to let the Court blame him when he knew he was in the right; nor did he choose to be addressed his gamekeeper. They call this oversensitiveness,' he went on to say, 'I call it a proper and politic maintenance of the authority of a mighty office. By others, Dalhousie has been described as evermaterful, as discouraging independent thought and action by his subordinates.

Masterful he was, but the strong men like John Lawrence, Mackeson, and Herbert Edwardes, who worked under him, were not the ones to be domineered over even by a Governor General, and they were among his warmest admirers. What his biographor also lays stress on was the absence of vainglory or egotion from his composition. He never took personal credit for the acts of his Government, which in his speeches and despatches were always those of the Governor General in Council, but he was ever roady to give the fullest credit to his lieutenants. Equally remark. able was the affection he won by his courtesy and consideration. He would apologise to a member of his Staff for asking him to appear in uniform in hot 'The Bishop comes to-day', he wrote; 'I am very sorry to give you the same trouble as he gives me, and to ask you tion of character than as the record of a momentous period in the history of India that these volumes will be read. In the carlier portions, there is an interesting account of Lord Dalhousie's Parliamentary life and of his work on the Board of Trade. Then comes the story of his Indian Administration. Going to India in 1848, when he was only thirty-six, he undertook a borden which he described as 'too heavy for the shoulders of Atlas,' but he never flinched or faltered under its weight. One problem after another was faced with undaunted courage and successfully overcome. The greatest, perhaps, was the annexation of the Punjab, of which Sir W. Lee-Warner writes with a knowledge of the facts that it would be hard to find elsewhore. One small detail will show how essily an historian may be botrayed into error when writing of India. Dalhousie was blamed for not at once following up the heroic but too impulsive effects of Herbort Edwardes to crush the rising at Multan. In his 'Life of Lord Lawrence, Mr Bosworth-Smith demolished, to his own satisfaction, the argument that the heat necessitated the postponement of Military operations. 'Seringapatam,' he inys, 'had been stormed on May 4.' As Sir W. Lee-Warner points out, the heat in Mysore, where he himself was Political Resident, can at no period of the year he compared with that which prevails for menths at Multan A still more stormy controversy was started by Sir Charles Napier; and this, too, is handled with judiclous discrimination. The annexation of Outh and Dalhousie's alleged neglect of the Military situation are fully discussed, With regard to the latter point, it was the ind fforence and obstruction that were opposed by the Home Authorities to his rupeated counsels which prevented the Governor General from carrying out the Military reforms which he contemplated, and which would have made our position in India stronger at no greater cost. Such, at any rate, is the conclusion arrived at by Sir W. Lee-Warner; and, as in other matters, he writes with a thorough mastery of his subject.

HOW MEN HAVE MISSED MAKING FORTUNES.

It is astounding how many men may every where he found who are discontented - who feel instinctively that they were born for better things; who in some way, they scarce know | how, have allowed life's golden opportunities to pans them by, failing to achieve what they beli-vo might have been, may should have been, theirs. No one can point to any definite defect in them, yet they have failed. Why have they failed?

To the expert observer the cause is very abylous. Success is schieved only by energy, and energy is what they lack, Now, energy, whether of the hand or the head, is produced by food. A starved man can seither dig the ground properly nor think out a matter clearly. Has a man, therefore, in order to become sucreetie, merely to be supplied with good food? No: unfortunately the case is not so simple as that. The food that to cats must do its ! work properly; must make rich, page blood, and repair the waste which is continually taking place in his system. Food can only do this when the digestive organs are in perfect working order. In persons whose digestion is impaired food stagnates, creates gase in the stomach, and not only fails to properly sustain them but aggravates their complaint and poisons

It is just here where Mother Seigol's Curative Syrup comes in. It is the one thing that cures indigestion, and all the numerous maladies of which it is the parent, and in that way may be regarded as an unrivalled source to energy. When in Tasmania foor yours ago I was attacked by a serious illness,' says Mr Bowden, of 23, Pring Street, Woolloomoolco, Sydney, N.S.W. I could neither est, sleep, nor rest. A doctor whom I consulted said I was suffering from dyspepsiz, and gave me some medicine, which petched me up for awhile; but I was soon as had as every again. Another doctor attended me for two months; but I received no benefit from his treatment, nor at the hospital where I afterwards went. My appetite almost ceased and the little I ate disagreed with me. I became dull and languid, and everything was a trouble to me. Accepting the advice of a friend to try Mother Seigel's Syrup, these troubles soon disappeared. After a few doses, I felt better then I had done for months past. By the time I had taken five bettles I was restored to health and energy.

Just so. That is precisely the effect that Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup produces. Not only does that medicine eradicate disease; it only does that medicine cradicate disease promotes health and energy, those absolutely indispensable qualities in all who are called upon to fight life's battle. It is a purely natural tonic, composed of fruits, roots, and herbs, containing no mineral sub-tance whatever. For thirty-five years it has occupied the first place among all medicines whatever; and evidence among all medicines whatever; and evidence as to its cuestive power is constantly forthcoming from the sixteen principal countries of the Indigestion and bilionsness are what some medical authorities term ' root diseases;' that medical authorities term root diseases; that is to say, if those complaints are neglected, they develop into others even more serious. More often than not, medicines supposed to be remedies are at first resorted to. Sometimes these are persevered with for considerable periods, esulting in loss of time and needless suffering, besides rendering the subsequent ourse by Mother Seigel's Syrup more difficult. In these circumstances Mr Bowden is to be contentated on having his attention so early gratulated on having his attention so early directed to Mother Seigel's Syrap, and upon the happy result of his use of it.

Many a man who is poor to day would be wealthy had he not been held down by ill-health. But there is bright hope for all such when once they desirly understand why they are so, and how they may unloose their bonds.

All transactions, we hear (says the Cepton Observer) have been completed for the construction of a railway through the interior of Johore, and it is now only a matter of time before this big work is taken in hand-there being only a few details to settle. To get to Johore, train has to be taken at Singapore for a distance of 14 miles, and then a ferry has to be crossed and after weary travelling Johore is reached. The present proposal is to join the Federated Malay States and to construct a railway through the Peninsula, the distance being 190 miles. The railway will run from Johore to the boundary of Negri Sembilan. The British, it appears, are

HORSES FOR JAPAN.

For the purpose of acranging for the purchase of 10,000 horses for use by the Japanese cavalry and artillery during the war with Russia, A. M. Deming, an Englishman and a prominent stock-raiser of Capetown, South Africa, arrived in Seattle, on April 21, and left for Portland where he will make his headquarters while negotiating for the purchase of the stock. While Mr Doming admits that he is here with the sanction of the Japanese government, he donies that he has been especially deputed to actually purchase the horses; that whatever stock he acquires during his trip, however, will eventually be used by the Army of the Mikado.

When seen on arrival by a Post Intelligencer reporter at the Hotel Butler, Mr Deming stated that the horses used by the Imperial Japanese cavalry and artillery are greatly inferior to the work required of them and he believes from his knowledge of the stock bought in this country for user of the British army during the war with the Boars, that Japan can do no better than to get her live stock from the United States. He will, therefore, study the market and the stock carefully and he thinks that it is highly probable that the entire consignment of 10,000 horses will be purchased in the West. He said :-

While I am not an official agent of Japan in this matter, I think that it would not be unwise to state that it is my intention to negotiate for the purchase of these horses, providing, in my opinion, the prices quoted in this country are satisfactory, and the appearance of the stock convinces me that it would be advisable for me to ship theme

The stock now used by the army is extremely poor and is proving a drawback to artillery. I have recently sent an agent to Australia and one to the Argentine republic to investigate the class and price of horses there, but from what I saw of the We wish travellers would realise the stock purchased in this country during the Boer war I think that it is probable that I will find it the part of wisdom? The government has impressed most of the good available horses in Japan for use in the army, and it is my intention to replace these borses by those purchased either in the United States or elsewhere. But I cannot say that the horses I acquire here will not eventually be used by the army. It is possible that the government will impress these also, providing they are better than the ones they now have-which they undoubtedly will be. I will remain i Portland until I have convinced myself of the advisability of purchasing the stock, and then I will return to this city. I hope to be able to arrange the matter satisfactorily in this country. I will say frankly that I would like to fix the transaction so that I can throw the business this way. As I said before, it is more a matter of price dom. than auything else.

Mr Deming states that he anticipates a long war in the Orient and that the Japanese government is preparing to keep their army in the field for some time. ### The Question of Education.

(From a Correspondent.)

Few countries are so slow to move in any given direction as China. The vis inertia is prodigious. Yet for all that it is impossible even for China to stand still. many respects she has sensibly deteriorated especially during the last century, and there are not a few of those who desire her welfare sincerely and carnestly who yet fear that there is no hope of real reform within the body politic. REFLECTIONS OF FATHER TIME.

The first instance of this that came to my attention was the post's observation to me confidence shortly after Paradise Lost went into its second edition.

'On the whole, Chronos,' said he, 'I future, don't feel so badly as I did about thi blindness of mine." . 'Poor fellow,' I roplied, 'it outs you out

How can a horror hail, papa? I thought 'It is but a more postic form, my child, said the post, gravely, 'of the old expression 'raining cats and dogs."

Homer's Birthplace.

Shortly after the publication of the Odyssey, which was the most popular no foundation whatever in the rumours historical novel of the season, and went through thirty-six large editions in ten that the Chinese threatened to bombard weeks, I had the pleasure of dining with Homer at his residence. He was feeling very happy over the pronounced success of his work, and regarded it as a vindication of his contention that if it was of the right sort poetry would sell.

'The publishers refused to consider it at first,' he said to me that evening, 'unless I would rewrite it in proce. "The public doesn't want poetry," they said, "and we're not in the publishing business for fun." But I persisted, and, having confidence enough in the work to offer to pay half the losses if there were any, they took hold of it, with the result, Mr. Time, that I'am now living upon what posterity will call Easy Street.

I congratulated him upon the gratifying success of his effort, and then observed carrying poles, he thought that their action | that I thought he and his publishers ought to get together and settle upon a definite birthplace for him.

The public interest in you has become so great, my dear House, said L that they want to know all about you. I know that, said Homor, with a laugh ;

And your publishers,' I continued, 'in the last seven days have announced your birthplace seven times, giving a different town each time. I don't care how scattering a poet may be, he can't possibly have been horn in more than one place."

'My dear fellow,' Homer answered, meeting adopted a resolution urging the chuckling, 'don't you understand? That's boom the book. We pick out a new native town every day so as to push the treatment of the negro race in this country. Odyssey in that particular locality. When Mr Chiles gave a copy of the resolution our agents get through I shouldn't be surprised to hear that I was born in Birming.

Before leaving the subject of this marvelous poet I cannot refrain from quoting the remark of a Greek wag of the lighter order that he marveiled at the inspiness of Homer's name. 'Judging from this tremendous story of his about the wanderings of Odysseus, he observed, 'I should think The breastplate, which is the invention of he ought to be called Away-From-Homer, Cassandra's Limitation as Prophetess.

Among all my friendships with prophets I do not recall any more generally reliable than Susan Cassandra, of Troy. It very seldom haprened that the thing she forteld failed to come about in the precise manner in which she had predicted. The destruction of Troy she predicted with such accuracy that the whole story of it in detail was in type in the office of the Trojan Gazette three weeks before it came off, and it was no uncommon thing in those day; for the editors all the country over to offer her large sums of wealth for advance information from the inside.

To her credit be it said that, save in matters pertaining to the actual welfare of her native land, she would not sell this information, no matter what the consideration offered. The story of Priam's downfall, the treachery of the horse, that great ringer' which enabled the Greeks to wreak such havoc upon that devoted city, the fate of Laocoon and his sons—all these things were vividly set forth in the pre-diction which she wrote out with the greatest care for the Trojan Gazette, but which the editor of that journal was pusilianimously afraid to print, Personally I used to take the greatest enjoyment from an occasional visit to Mme. It may interest American readers of these memoirs to learn that she foretold to the minute the discovery of America by Columbus, the overthrow of George III. by Washington, and the development of the political conditions of the present day. And who followed him? She laughed pleasantly. 'I've been try ing to find out for some weeks,' said she but I can't seem to do it. He occupies so much of the horizon at that point that ? can't see past him.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY

This successful and highly popular remedy, as employed in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Johert, Velpeau, and others, combines all the desiderata to be sought in a medicine of the kind and surpasses everything hitherto employed. THERAPION NO. 1 in a remarkably short time, often a few days only, removes all discharges from the urinary organs. superseding injections, the use of which does irre-parable harm by laying the foundation of stricture and other serious diseases.

THERAPION No. 2. for Impurity of the blood, scurvy, pimples, spots, blotches, pains and swelling of the joints, secondary symptoms, gold, rhenmatism, and all diseases for which it has been too, much a fashion to empley mercury, sameparilla, a.c., to the destruction of sufferers' teeth and ruin of health. This proparation purifies the whole system through the blood, and thoroughly eliminates every polsonous matter from the body.

THERAPION NO. 3
for nervous exhaustion, impaired vitality, sleeplessnoss, and all the distressing consequences of early error, excess, residence in hot, unbealthy climates, error, excess, residence in hot, unhealthy climates, ac. It possesses surprising power in restoring strength and vigour to the debilitated.

THERAPION is sold by all Chemists and Merchants throughout the World.

Price in England 3/9 & 4/6. Is ordering, state which of the throcaumbers is required, and observe above Trade Mark, which is a fac-simile of word.

A LONDON MERCHANT

ON THE MONEY VALUE OF LAFE.

TTARDLY a week passes without some one being killed or seriously injured by the Electric Street Cars, and the dangers of overhead wires carrying powerful cursents will more and more bring the Tramway companies face to face with the problem of what it costs to kill. The law estimates the value of a man's life by his income or the property he owns. A working man's life is valued according to the loss sustained by his widow. In a case of injury without actual loss of life the market value of health has to be estimated, and it is rightly valued high. In this connection may be quoted some remarks by Mr H. C. McKinlay, the well-known Colonial Merchant, of 59, Mark-lane, London, E.C. Speaking of Dr Williams' pink pills for pale people, Mr McKinlay said. 'The value of this medicine cannot be measured by any weight of precious metal-gold. This sovereign remedy can be compared only with Life

These words occurring in a letter led to Mr McKinlay being visited by a newspaper representative, when he said, in explanation, I do not care about being interviewed, but I think it is only fair that I should say that I have been a martyr to indigestion in an acute and chronic form for years, and I have also suffered for a long time from its attendant complaintsflatulence, shortness of breath, sleepless ness, acidity, and very bad attacks of liver complaint.

So seriously did I suffer that I can assure you that at times, from the symp- Haiten, for Swatow. toms I detected, I really believed it had Indramayo, for Shanghal. brought about something approaching Petrurch, for Chefon. heart disease, or at any rate very serious Samsen, for Bangkok. heart trouble. 'I determined when I became very had Unison, for Sancho. to see if I could drop this harrying, and I Zingara, for Sasebo. ate slowly, and was careful as to my diet. But I am sfraid I had gone too far on the downward line to obtain any good from Mausong, for Kudat. adopting such a simple remedy as this, Pentakota, for Amoy. and although I persevered it was all to no Themis, for Kobe.

At last it came to my knowledge that a wonderful cure had been obtained in a very severe case of indigestion from Dr Willia s' pink pills, and I have no hesitation in saying that I found them marvellous and Mrs R. N. Nason, Mr and Mrs F. E. in their effect. They soon began to brace Welch Mr and Mrs F. Kennedy, Mrs M. me up; they gave me more evergy, and the A Wilkes, Mrs L. 'I now hegan to enjoy my food again and W. W. Wilson. instead of looking forward to meals with absolute abhorrence. They are great builders up of the nerves and blood. You have my permission, Mr McKinlay concluded, 'to publish what I have just told you.'

Where would you be without the bloom which health imparts to your cheeks? What are fine features worth when the complexion is sallow and the eyes dull?
